So well did he improve his oprtunities that in a couple of years he had come be regarded as fit for a man's work and responsibilities. About this time an opportunity was offered him to leave the printing office and take charge of a gang of hands engaged on one of the public works. He succeed so well that he was emboldened to undertake similar contracts on his own account. Removing to Ohio he established himself at Napoleon, Henry county, and, while awaiting some public works, an opening in which he had reason to expect, he purchased a printing office at Defiance, and published the Northwestern Democrat. He engaged extensively in railroad building; subsequently, was elected twice to the Ohio Legislature, was a member of the State Board of Public Works for four years; in 1857 was elected Public Printer at Washington; went to the Charleston convention as a Douglas man; afterwards ran in his district as the Douglas candidate for Congress, (but was defeated,) and when the call for volunteers was issued by Lincoln, telegraphed to Governor Dennison, offering a regiment for the service. Three days after his appointment as colonel he had his camp near Cleveland. The Fourteenth made a splendid record in the field. It first saw service in West Virginia, and was at the battle of Phillipi-the first land affair of the war. In July, 1861, the regiment was veteranized and ordered to General Thomas' command, at Camp Robinson, Ky. It saw hard service in the Kentucky campaign, and was then ordered to Shiloh, and participated in that battle. After the fall of Corinth it was engaged in the pursuit of Bragg, and such renown had Colonel Steedman won by this time, that he was assigned to the command of a brigade, and July 17, 1862, was com-

He said that eighteen years ago this Post was organized under the old system. "Illinois has the honor of inaugurating the Grand Army of the Republic, which unites the soldiers of the armies of this country upon the single qualification of an honorable discharge. An adjoining county furnished the first Commander, the brave general and soldier, Stephen A. Huribut, the treasurer of the Warren street Children's | whom we all loved. NEBRASKA.

Comrade A. T. Giangue, TRIBUNE correspondent of Robert Auderson Post, No. 32, York, Neb., says that the last meeting of that Post was a very enjoyable one, chiefly owing to the presence of Mrs. Howe and Mrs. Hartin, the former of whom rendered such noble service as nurse in the Army of the Petomac for three years. She made a few very appropriate remarks to the old veterans, whom she afterwards surprised with a dalutily served collation, which was heartily enjoyed. Expressive of the Post's appreciation of Mrs. Howe and her companien, Mrs. Hartin, the Post passed very complimentary resolutions relating to the self-sacrificing devotion of army nurses, especially eulogizing Mrs. Howe. THE THEBUNE correspondent had, by a singular coincidence, prepared resolutions embodying a request that the legislative powers of the Grand Army and Sens of Veterans be invoked to so change the constitutions of both as to admit to full membership the wives and daughters of veterans and sons of veterans in the two organizations. as they might respectively be eligible under proper restrictions. The resolution was heartily received, but, owing to the lateness of the hour, it was postponed for further consideration at the next meeting, when its unanimious passage is predicted.
